

SHIKATO Shunsuke is a representative of the Japan Patent Office in Europe and works as the principal director of the IP department of JETRO Dusseldorf, supporting Japanese companies, liaising with European IP organizations, and researching IP trends in Europe. He had engaged as a patent examiner and administrative judge of the trial and appeal department in civil engineering, physical analysis, and amusement technology. He has also experienced the IP policy of NEDO (governmental R&D organization), research and policy planning division, international division in charge of the IP5 cooperation and patent harmonization, and trial and appeal division of JPO. Before he was seconded to JETRO, he was the head of JPO's PR office and leader of movie "SHO-HYO-KEN" to promote the importance of IP rights.

QR code for "SHO-HYO-KEN" (140 seconds, the movie is only in Japanese, hopefully you can understand the importance of IP)
